

B I O G R A P H Y

Nanette Miner, Ed.D.

Dr. Nanette Miner is the Founder of, and Managing Consultant for, The Training Doctor, a boutique consultancy which has specialized in customized curriculum design for over a quarter-century.

She is a frequent speaker at training-industry and human resource conferences, a featured speaker at corporate conventions, and an expert-guest on the topic of workforce development and millennial career-development for syndicated talk-radio shows including America's Workforce Radio and Inc. Radio.

As a scholar-practitioner, she is the author of The Accidental Trainer (Pfeiffer, 2006), co-author of Tailored Learning: Designing the Blend That Fits (ASTD, 2009), a contributor to the 2009 Pfeiffer Annual on Training, and has been published by, or quoted in, Huffington Post, Fast Company, and a variety of industry and trade journals.

Dr. Miner has a master's in Training and Organization Development, a doctorate in Adult Learning Theory and a passion for workplace learning - where time is of the essence and performance is a non-negotiable.